A TRIO OF RESORTS.

LIFE IN THE BEAUTIFUL WARM-SPRINGS VALLEY.

Irginia Putting Aside Old Things Charming Companies-Richmond Guests-The Railroad.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] HOT, HEALING, AND WARM SPRINGS, VA. August 3.—Said yesterday a prominent New Yorker, "do not Virginians have rheumatism?" His complaint was an implied compliment that his desire was verily to know our genial people, yet at this famed sanitarium he had known few save those from his own frigid clime.

So marvellous are the cures of the carth-heated waters that the forlornest of the forlorn cripple is lifted from the carriage in a hobbling state; in a few weeks he happily hobbles no more and finds his limbs so much limbered as to enter the ball-room and exchange with alacity his cane for a fair partner and his stiff joints for the trip of the "light fantastic toe."

All the worldleongurs in the tact that the budding time of the Warm-Springs Valley is now here, and in a near and very brilliant future will it blossom into an existence which will open even the alert American eye still wider. Its ancient hills and restful vales are being measured with a method of such madness as will create of the whole a wondrous Elysian field and pools where the very clixir of life is absorbed. Engineers, busy at work with rod and instrument, are everywhere pushing their schemes. A party from the concern of Bondwich & Co., Boston, the noted engineers and constructors of Tuxian Park, are here engaged in making their estimates. earth-heated waters that the forlornest of e engaged in making their estimates

COING ABROAD FOR PLANS.

Last week experts sailed for the other side of the Atlantic to there study up the Continental baths, so that if feasible they will supply a pattern for the $130,000 pool to be here erected, while architects the most skilled are conning over plans extensive and elaborate for hotels the most approved and elegant, to be completed by next season. The division of the rare trio of resorts will see the Healing the covert mook, the restful haven for tired brainworkers—a very ideal "Rassellar happy valley"; the Het will claim the Esscularits laurels for curing "all the is that flesh is heir to," while the Warm Springs will be the gay and gorgeous arens for all the festive gambols of pleasure's votaries.

LAYING ASIDE OLD TRINGS. GOING ABROAD FOR PLANS. LAYING ASIDE OLD TRINGS.

Old Virginia is really laying aside old things for new, and in a little while her typical life will be but legendary lore, and her simple, unadorned old customs but as a tale that is told. Already the contrasts are beginning to be strong and striking. Among these heary mounts where the thrush and the robin were went to rest the thrush and the robin were went to rest the thrush and the robin were well to rest upon the wild-wood's tree theyanow perch and warble their roundellev upon the tele-graph-wires, and along with the melodi-ous distant sound of the sheep-bells from the far-off hills comes the sharp ring of the telephone-bell near at band. And so one dreams away the summer hours with the happy consciousness of having easy and immediate access to an awaking from the ideal to the real.

Happy for the guests is the time when Mr. H. W. Fuller arrives to have a glimpse into the workings of the schemes of the Southern Improvement Company, which is developing so wonderfully this valley, for apart from business he infuses a spirit of geniality into every circle. Last week he was accompanied by his charming young daughter, Miss Lacile Fuller.

Mr. Decatur Axtell was also registered for a few days recently, and give the good news that Mrs. Axtell would arrive at the Hot in August, while Mrs. H. W. Fuller and Miss Nellie Fuller are expected in September. SOME OF THE VISITORS.

At the Healing, which is a very gem of mountain inns, there are a congregation of charming people. Its immaculate farmshing, dainty table, and appetizing appointment render it the most appreciated substitute for home. Its waters create a drowsiness equal to hypnotism and one believes fully in the blessedness of that sleep which is "tired nature's sweet restorer." More than one fair damset idding away the sunlit hours there sees in a proud mirror a Madam Recamier bloom unfolding upon her damask check. The same sense of this benefit may be found in the circular under the head of "cutaneous diseases."

Messrs, Stinson, the proprietors, being from the methodical North, happily do not err in the successful management of their extensive summer home, for it in truth may be better thus defined than as a hotel. Among their guests now are Mrs. R. C. Morton, Miss Julia Morton, Master Page Morton, Miss Julia Morton, Master Page Morton, Miss Judith Carrington, Page Morton, Miss Judith Carrington, Miss Munford, Miss Etta Munford, Colonel Charles Ellis, and Master Charle Tailout, all of Richmond, while from there Mrs. Mann Valentine and family are among the latest arrivals and Miss Emma Carrington is expected in the early future.

is expected in the early future.

HOT SOLOTENERS.

At the Hot is Dr. Francis Willis, Mr. Charles Read, and Mr. Minor Lewis, all of Richmond, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hill expected in a short time. Among the other guests at this resort, which the proprietor, Mr. Bishop, is always so courteous in his attentions to, are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Henderson, of New York city. Mr. Henderson is the owner and manager of the Anchor line of steamers plying between New York and Glasgow. Scotland, and is a prominent member of the New York Yacht Club.

Ulub.
Among those who have recently left empty places, much to be regretted in our midst, are Mr. John H. Harris, of New York, vice-president and manager of the Worthington Pumping-Engine Company, his concern having erected machinery of the Richmond Water-Works.

But none are missed more than Mr. C. Lowndes Bennett, one of Baltimore's most cultured gallants. Even the little folks are bemoaning his devarture with his kindnesses and his unfailing courtesy.

bemoaning his departure with his kindnesses and his unfailing courtesy.

THE SAD GOOD-BY.

However brilliant may be the stirring measure of spring's life there is ever sounding in the muffled notes of its deeper meaning a sad strain of melody awakened by the touch of those inevitable words "good-by." A large dose of philosophy compounded with one grain of common sense to two grains of indifference and hardheartedness is a man's prescription for an effectual antidote for the malady of a summer's fleeting interest, and its attendant effects of a lingering recollection. An attack of memory needs must be treated skilfully like the chicken-pox, so that no pitts or scars are left to tell the tale and a speedy recovery evinced by that normal state of the mind which enables a shrug of the shoulders and an accompanying conviction that after all "life holds blessings for us yet." Though the sublime object of the sojourner in the Warm. Springs Valley be to rekindle the spark of life, whether it be threatening to go out with the press of business cares or encroaching illness, there is never lacking that breath of joyousness so essential to vigor and healthfulness. And the guests at each resort are bidden and made welcome to the chivent and the makes.

A DELEGATION FROM THE WARM.

A few evenings past the waiters at the Hot gave a most creditable concert, and one of the features of it was the portion of the audience made up of a charming party from the Warm Springs. Their appearance was immediate inspiration for mods and beeks and wreathed smiles," for among them were Mr. and Mrs. George R. McAdams and Master Thomas McAdams, Mr. Richard A. Pegram, of Richmond, and Mr. Charles Witherspoon, of Petersburg; Miss Winchester, of Louisville; Mr. Thomas Glover, the popular manager of the Warm, and others.

A DELIGHIFUL GERMAN.

* The evening following a delightful german at the Warm made a pleasing return of hospitalities to a merry party of cancers from the Hot.

Again, the Hot was the magnet of the community on Saturday evening, when some most successful tableaux called for beauty, red lights, and applause, all of which were most happily forthcoming. Perhaps the most charming tableau was Pygmalion and Galatea, in which the delicate beauty of Miss Mamie Bishop lent its aid to the success of the impersonation, while Mr. Herbert Bishop posed most excellently as the inspired sculptor. Among the spectators were a charming party from the Healing, chaperoned by one of Norfolk's fair social leaders. Mrs. Talbot Walke.

THE CITY BY THE SEA. The City by the Sea is further represented by Mr. Walke and Mr. Floyd liughes, both prominent young lawyers.

The event of the Valley is anticipated in a week of drama at the Warm in the full flush of the gay August days, Mr. C. B. Hanford and wife, of Washington, well known in dramatic circles, are rehearsing the plays "Snowball" and "Donna Diana," to which will be added two scence from the Hunchback.

sadv many charming people are there.

Richmond are Mr. and Mrs. Henry tine, Mrs. Dr. Charles Shields Miss Leigh Page, while Mrs. C. M. Wil-Misses Elise and Bruce Williams, Lelia Winston, and Miss Rosalls on are expected next week.

Springs progresses favorably and only a little time more it will be running. For invalids and such as travel with limited time at their disposal it will be an untold advantage. But such as have both time and health will always find the stage route a pleasure they will be loathe to relinquish.

ALLEGHANY SPRINGS. A Happy Company - Favorite Resort of

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.)

ALLEGGANT SPEINGS, August 5.—A happier company than that assembled here it would be no easy matter to find, and it is a large and constantly increasing company. There are not less than two hundred visitors, counting little and big, young and old. A dezen or more have just cone from Richmond, among them Mrs. P. H. Starke and Miss Lou Starke, Mrs. E. D. Hotchkiss and four children, Mrs. Thomas. A. Brander and daughter, E. B. Thomas. Son, and others. Richmond takes kindly to the Alleghany, and that accounts in part for the engenness to secure the Disparch when the bus rolls in about sundown.

A SOUTHERN FAVERITE.

Nothing is more manifest than the hold this celebrated watering-place has upon far-off southern States as one moves among the guests, as I have done, and asks about their homes. Here they are from Texas and Louisiana and Mississippi and Tennessee, and from many more States and Territories, and many of them have been coming throughlong years. They seek nothing better, they talk of nothing better.

One reason for this is the water. It matters not what aliment you have this water "makes you feel good." And then, too, there's a delightful home feeling here. There are really no rules, every one does as he pleases, only he pleases to do right. The French have a proverb that "the man who does not take a year of before he is fifty-five will not live to be sixtyfive." Whether that be true or not we ought all to go slow in August, and among the things that we ought to thank the Lord for is the fact that all through these Southwest Virginia mountains are as delightful summer resorts as the world knows of.

He was some years ago a member of the editorial staff of the Econing Star, a brilliant paper, of which ex-Governor Cameron was the editor-in-chief, and for two years past has been book-keeper at the Index-Appeal office. Mr. Campbell was a gentleman of varied accomplishments, of a most genial disposition, and possessed a real vein of humor, which always rendered him a most agreeable companion. He married a sister of Mrs. General Dearing, of Lynchburg. He was a member of A. P. Hill Camp of Contederate Veterans.

He gave his name at one place as Brown, at another as Johnson, and at another as Johnson, and at another as Johnson, and at another as a carpenter and as having lately worked for a well-known citizen of Dinwiddie county. He talked well and avoided suspicion. The last heard of him was when he presented to a local merchant and had cashed an order for $15, purporting to be drawn by Mr. R. W. Manson, which proved to be a forged paper. GENERAL NEWS.

The Evidence of Mrs. Clice-A Most Im portant Witness.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.]

(Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

ABINGDON, VA., August 6.—Court convened at the usual hour this morning with a smaller attendance than usual and the witnesses for the defence were immediately called.

Professor James A. Davis, of Emory, a brother of Mrs. Baker, took the stand and testified that the relations between Dr. Baker and his wife had always been pleasant, devoted, and all that they should be. He never heard rumors of Baker's bad conduct until after the death of Mrs. Baker. He was not present at his sister's death, but was at the funeral, and Dr. Baker appeared very much distressed. He had heard of the previous troubles Mrs. Baker had experienced in childburth and especially of the dangers attending the last one.

especially of the dangers attending the last one.

Mas. CLICE'S TESTIMONY.

The principal witness examined to-day was Mrs. Chee, netee of Dr. Baker, who lives close to their home. Her testimony was as follows: "I have always been on most intimate terms with my uncle's family. I saw Mrs. Baker frequently prior to her death. In June she apprised me of her condition and afterwards on several occasions spoke of her apprehension of the approaching period. I saw her Sunday of the week she died and she was in a most delicate condition and could hardly move about the house. She was not in bed, but would not take exercise. She again told me that she would not live. Wednesday morning, the day she died, one of her daughters came for me in a burgy. On resching her room I found her with her other daughter and husband. She was lying on the bed very nervous and weak. Dr. Baker was at her side and Bessie was rubbing her feet. After a short while the family wont to dinner, leaving her in charge of Bessie. After dinner (about 1 o'clock) she seemed to get worse, and Dr. Baker sent a messenger to Abingdon for Dr. Wiley. Dr. Baker came to her bedside and she threw her arms around his neck, saying: "Oh, darling love, I am going to have a spasm."

DIED IN CONVULSIONS.

Dr. Baker told her to try to keep quiet. It was only her old trouble, and Dr. Wiley was coming. I was on the opposite side of the bed from Dr. Baker. She suddenly grassed one of my hands and said: "Fray that my labor may be short," and then went into convulsions and died in a few minutes. It was shortly after 30'clock. Dr. Wiley had not come. Dr. Baker was the first to leave the room. He was crying. The neighbors were notified and began coming in. I sent word to Undertaker Baldwin to select a suitable coffin and bring embalming fluid. Mrs. Baker did not vomit while I was with her.

TRYING CROSS EXIMINATION.

TRYING CROSS EXAMINATION. The witness was here subjected to a mos The witness was here subjected to a most trying cross examination, as her evidence destroys, if believed, all the theories that Mrs. Baker died from poisoning. She stood the questioning well and was not confused, but had several very lively spats with Mr. Wysor, one of the counsel for the Commonwealth, in which she held her own. With the conclusion of her evidence court adjourned until to-morrow.

INCREASE OF REVENUE.

Railroad and Other Taxes in Halifax, N. C .- Crops.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.)

Scotland Neck, N. C., August 5.—According to the report of the Railroad Commission sent to the commissioners of this county, the whole length of railroads in the county is 70.94 miles, valued at $431,797.74. The taxes on these lines will be quite an addition to the revenue of the county. The Register of Deeds with his assistants is working hard upon the tax-books for the county, and from what can be gathered at this stage of the work the taxes of the county will be considerably increased.

The latest report from this place to the crep bulletin says that the prospects here are as poor as in 1882. That refers, however, to cotton. The corn crop is certainly better than in 1882, and if there is no damaging freshet to the river crops there will be a fair crop of corn. A gentleman from the toffacco section of the county said to your correspondent yesterday that he had not seen a finer tobacco crop than the present one. (Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.)

"Colonel L. Q. Washington:

"Dear Sir,—I would take it as a special favor if you would notice favorably in your dispatch to the Courier-Journal the speeches made to-day by my colleagues, John Young Brown and Charles Milliken. Neither has everspoken before. Brown's speech against the civil rights bills was full of logic, eloquence, and learning. No more vigorous presentation of the constitutional objection to it has yet been put, while his denunciation of the misrule in South Carolina, Louisiana, and elsewhere was a masterpiece of pathos, eloquence, and logic. It was altogether a very fine effort.

"Milliken spoke against Hoar's educational bill of-hand, but very well. He showed how utterly subversive it was of all the rights of the State; how thorough it was in its centralizing operations, and, altogether, made a speech which reflected versel credit on him. Without the thorough

STATESMEN LETTER-WRITING

Declares Probibition a Dead Issue.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

Topera, Kan., August 6.—Kansas statesmen seem to have gone into the letterwriting business. The open letter from Harrison Kelley, Republican congressman from the Fourth district, renouncing his old party for the People's party, is followed to day by a letter from Secretary.of. State Higgins, declaring prombition a dead issue. The letter from Higgins is a great surprise, as he has been for several years a leader of the Prohibition wing of the Republican party. He says that four or five years past he had been opposed to making prohibition an issue in the campaign. In the future he will use his efforts to prevent it, and now it is a question, he says, whether Republican principles shall win at the polls without an endorsement of prohibition or be defeated withit. He predicts that prohibition will never be endorsed by another State convention. He declares that he wants the prohibition law to remain on the statute-books, but if it or the Keepublican party must go down he to remain on the statute-books, but if it or the Republican party must go down he wants it to be prohibition.
